Libertine botany

can-organizers: natania meeker & antónia szabari, usc french & comparative literature

november 29-30
Doheny Memorial Library 240 University Park Campus, USC

start time
Thursday, 12:30 pm
Friday, 8:30 am

participants
Justin Begley
Sarah Benharrech
Dominique Brancher
Amanda Jo Goldstein
Pauline Goul
Devlin Griffiths
Blanca Missé
Vin Nardizzi
Jessica Rath
Jessica Rosenberg
Sherry Velasco

university of helsinki
university of maryland
university of basel university of california, berkeley
vassar college
university of southern california
san francisco state university the university of british columbia art center college of design university of miami
university of southern california

Co-sponsors: USC-Huntington Early Modern Studies Institute, the Cultural Services of the French Embassy in the United States, the USC Francophone Resource & Research Center, the USC Dornsife College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences, the USC Departments of French and Italian, Comparative Literature, English, and Latin American and Iberian Cultures, the USC Libraries, the USC Del Amo Foundation, and the USC graduate program in Comparative Studies in Literature and Culture.

Image credit: Jessica Rath, “paragon puckers,” Ripe series